

news

- 6 My View: Dan Traucki – Australia's future lies in alternative wines
- 8 Has enthusiasm for the WET scheme dried up?
- 10 SIMEI – a long way from Jeff's Shed

grapegrowing

- 16 Should I try saltbush for a cover crop?
- 19 Viti equipment displays 'bells and whistles' at SIMEI
- 22 Creed of Barossa resurrects old vineyards vineyard machinery

- 32 Pellenc helps producers approach harvest processes with vision irrigation

- 34 MEA wins funding to create plant sensor

winemaking

- 37 The 2009 Rheinhessen vintage – the ripeness of a preferred vintage, but ...
- 41 A preliminary analysis of horizontal and vertical flow wetlands for the treatment of winery wastewater
- 46 SIMEI delivers on new developments analytical services

- 55 Winemaker puts wheels on wine lab
- 58 Accuracy, flexibility and repeatability with Hanna automatic titration system
- 60 Automated titration system wins design award yeast, enzymes & bacteria

- 61 Maximising aroma preservation in white and rosé wines

bottling & packaging

- 69 Wine Storage & Logistics goes from strength to strength
- 74 Crown seal demand takes sparkling bottler by surprise
- 76 New laser coder helps bottle [yellow tail] to the 'max'

materials handling

- 78 Dräger helps ensure workers are kept safe

australian wine business

- 81 Will NZ learn from mistakes made across the ditch?
- 82 Producers thinking outside the marketing square
- 84 SA wines soar to cult status overseas

Cover: During summer, dozens of bearded dragons can be seen throughout Capital Wines' Kyeema Vineyard near Canberra, hanging off vines or standing quite still. It is thought the fact there are so many of these fascinating creatures indicates a healthy environment.

regulars

- 5 on the grapevine
- 16 grapegrowing
- 37 winemaking
- 81 australian wine business
- 86 the wine exporter
- 92 marketplace classifieds